

Harun Yahya's Works Rock The World: Darwinism In Germany Has Been Demolished

Die Welt, one of Germany's leading dailies, recently carried out a poll on the subject of creation on its web site. Eighty-six percent of those taking part answered the question "How do you think life came into being?" by saying "God created it."

Following Harun Yahya's Atlas of Creation, which has had an amazing impact in many European countries and America and which describes how evolution never happened and sets out the fact of Creation, Darwinism has been demolished in Germany. The German public have personally seen, through the hundreds of fossil specimens in Atlas of Creation, that living things have remained unchanged for many millions of years, and that they therefore never evolved.
