

Middle East Online – Darwinism"s Two Great Predicaments

Middle East Online, a web site published from Britain, carried a report containing extracts from an interview with Adnan Oktar conducted by the Iranian journalist Kourosh Zibari on 13 May, 2009. (You can read the full text of the interview here.)

Adnan Oktar was introduced as follows:

Inarguably, he [Harun Yahya] is the most influential non-political figure of his country and among the most significant scholars of the Islamic world.

ADNAN OKTAR: Darwinism faces two great predicaments, the fossil record and its inability to account for how the first living cell appeared. Darwin himself also knew that the fossil record repudiated his theory. He admits in his Origin of Species that the fossil record cannot be explained in terms of evolution...

Allah is He Who is unfettered by any flaw or deficiency, He Who stands in need of nothing. For that reason, Allah has no need of any cause, or instrument or intermediary or stages in order to create. The fact that everything in the world is dependent on natural causes and laws must not deceive anyone. Allah, as the Creator, is entirely unfettered by any of these. Some people who fail to properly appreciate Allah's sublime creative power and the artistry in His creation come up with extraordinary ideas such as "Islamic evolution." When these people, who maintain that human beings developed through evolution, are asked how the angels and the djinn were created, their answer will be "Allah created them from nothing." The way the Prophet Musa's (as) staff turned into a snake with a digestive system when he cast it on the ground cannot be explained in terms of evolution. Neither can the way a piece of clay in the shape of a bird turned into a living bird and flew away when the Prophet 'Isa (as) breathed on it be explained in terms of evolution. Nor can the resurrection on the Day of Judgment be explained in terms of evolution. The gardens of Paradise and the mansions in Heaven cannot be explained by evolution.

ميدل ايست اونلاين
MIDDLE EAST ONLINE

Home	New Published 2009-05-13	News Headlines
Arab Gates	On Darwinism	▶ Atlas slams Israeli occupation while receiving pope
Opinion	Darwinism faces two great predicaments, the fossil record and its inability to account for how the first living cell appeared. Darwin himself also knew that the fossil record repudiated his theory. He admits in his Origin of Species that the fossil record cannot be explained in terms of evolution, argues Harun Yahya.	▶ Palest under fire over torture findings
Business	[An interview with Harun Yahya by Kourash Ziaoh]	▶ In Mideast, poetry in language of love
Culture	Inarguably, he is the most influential non-political figure of his country and among the most significant scholars of the Islamic world. The heading-making, best-selling, controversial intellectual whose sumptuous "Atlas of Creation" sold 10,000 copies worldwide is described by Le Monde as the "Global Leader of Muslim Creationism" and La Liberation comments that his anti-Darwinist notions have "caused total panic in a single move."	▶ Iraq PM blames US prisoner releases for violence
Features	Adnan Oktar, writing under the pen name of Harun Yahya, is a 1956-born Turkish scholar of interdisciplinary studies and his 216 books on creationism, evolution, Islamic unity, oriental culture and political Islam have been embraced by readers in some 150 countries in more than 40 languages.	▶ New Palestinian government delayed
Letters	He is the Honorary President of the Turkey-based Science Research Foundation which sponsors the publication of his profuse books and features on the prominent radio and TV stations, newspapers and websites regularly.	▶ Obama to revive Guantanamo military trials
Links	In September 2008, he rigorously won a bid against the renowned British Professor Richard Dawkins by having the Istanbul's 31st 2nd Criminal Court of Peace ban the website of renowned Darwinist on the grounds that he had insulted the personality of Mr. Yahya with defamatory and blasphemous comments.	▶ US returns 02 to Iraq
Contact us	In an interview with me, Harun Yahya describes why he is opposed to Darwinism so fervently. "Darwinism faces two great predicaments, the fossil record and its inability to account for how the first living cell appeared," he describes. "Darwin himself also knew that the fossil record repudiated his theory. He admits in his Origin of Species that the fossil record cannot be explained in terms of evolution."	▶ Israel gives US Lebanon cluster bomb locations
الاصحاح العربي	He denies the notion of natural selection as the supremacy and diffusion of favorable hereditary traits in a successive reproduction of generations and asserts: "One of Darwinists' most important tactics is to use complex terminology sprinkled with incomprehensible Latin words, to pass over what they cannot explain away and generally to muddy the waters and attempt to show that what is impossible might actually have happened." He adds, "It is pointless for a theory that cannot account for how the first cell came into being to speculate on how living species appeared. In addition, natural selection has no features capable of giving rise to a new species, and that is a clear and technical reality."	▶ Kuwait's top investment firm defaults
	Harun Yahya does not believe in the sequence of human's evolution which was followed by the metamorphosis of apes into human being and denounces it as a devious and false argument: "As well as all the universe and all living things, human beings also came into existence by God commanding them to Be!" he stresses. "No life form is descended from any other. Human beings were created as human beings and have no common ancestors with apes or any other creatures."	▶ Hadhramah says giving full support to Hamas
	Yahya believes that Darwin's thesis that humans and apes share a common ancestor was not supported by any scientific findings either when it was first proposed or subsequently."
	He had previously called for his readiness to mount a live debate with Richard Dawkins before the TV cameras, but the British ethnologist who had branded Yahya's Atlas of Creation as "imposturous", refused and wrote in his personal blog that he prefers "not to give publicity" to creationists, even if they think that "we have not the courage" to participate in debate with them.
	Harun Yahya intriguingly believes that renowned dictators of the world believed in Darwinism as the theoretical basis of their atrocities and felonies: "If a theory makes a scientific claim and insists on imposing that on the entire world, despite having been disproved with hundreds of pieces of evidence by all branches of science, and if efforts are made to keep it alive in the face of reason and science, then there is clearly nothing at all in any way related to science going on here."
	"I realized right from my high school days that all this bloodshed, these world wars, the ruthless exploitation of people and revolutions could not be spontaneous, but that there had to be something behind them," believes Yahya.
	"When I researched it, I saw that all these scourges were organized by Freemasonry, and that the religion of 'Freemasonry' is Darwinism. There is no materialism without Darwinism, and no communism, fascism, savage capitalism or terror without materialism" he adds.
	"Those responsible for the great wars in the 19th and 20th centuries, all the slaughter, invasions and genocide then, were all Darwinists. Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, Lenin, Mao and all the others believed in and espoused Darwinism, and Darwinism always lay at the heart of the blood they shed and the suffering they inflicted" concludes Yahya.
	Harun Yahya, belonging to a noble lineage of Ottoman Empire, has been engaged in intellectual activities and struggles since his early school years. He was sentenced to prison several times and according to his press agent, is now working on some books to reveal the deceptions and frauds of Freemasonry and Zionism.

<https://www.harunyahya.info/en/articles/middle-east-online-8211-darwinisms-two-great-predicaments>