Asharq Al Awsat: "Harun Yahya won his struggle against the theory of evolution"

Leading Arabic language daily newspaper Asharq Al Awsat, based in London, and distributed in three continents, published an article with the title, "Harun Yahya has won his struggle against the theory of evolution."

A part of the article is as follows:

"According to Adnan Oktar, Darwin tells a lie and there is no such process as the process of evolution. Oktar says that he will award anyone who brings a proof validating the theory of evolution with three million dollars.

...Adnan Oktar has great influence both on the Turkish society and abroad. It seems he has won his struggle by being instrumental in the official removal of the theory of evolution from the curriculum. Oktar says his anti-Darwinist books such as "The Collapse of the theory of evolution in 20 questions" have been instrumental in this."
